

As a former TV broadcaster, but more importantly, as a citizen of the United States and a U.S. Army veteran, I find it reprehensible that Sinclair Broadcasting has the corporate nerve to show a biased political documentary shortly before the Presidential election. What ever happened to the Fairness Doctrine in broadcasting?

Sinclair not serving the public interest. It is using its media monopoly to force-feed its corporate ownership's political persuasion to its viewers. The FCC needs to be vigilant that actions like this do not begin leading to what happened in Germany in 1933 when Hitler forced through the Reich Presse Laws onto an unsuspecting public, thereby gaining control over all forms of journalism, publishing, radio, TV (yes, TV in 1933), and motion pictures.

If the FCC sits back and does nothing about this, permitting a "takeover" of the public airways by a corporation like Sinclair, it is pouring democracy and the First Amendment of the Constitution down the drain.

There should be an immediate public hearing by the FCC into this matter and about Sinclair's license renewal, when it comes up next.
